HOLD UP SALE
OF $8,000,000
SCHOOL LAND

Trustees Warned of Exploitation.

BY CARL WARREN.

Proceedings toward the disposal of school land valued at $8,000,000 in the first outright sale of such property in many years were temporarily halted yesterday by Mrs. W. S. Heffernan, a member of the board of education, at a meeting of the board's buildings and grounds committee.

Heffernan won the passage of a motion to delay action on the move since she warned might be "a play in the hands of an unscrupulous or crafty syndicate." The committee's adoption of her motion came as a surprise move in the afternoon after a conference of board members in the evening when it appeared the sale proposal would be put through at the board's regular meeting tomorrow.

For Lack of Votes.

It was reported that during the two-hour interval between the two sessions yesterday administration board members counted heads and decided in view of unexpected public interest in the matter they could not depend upon the necessary three-fourths majority for such speedy action.

Statements of the board officials last night, however, indicated that the sale proposal is merely suspended. Trustees thought, mind, chairman of the committee and proponent of the plan, explained that they will probably hold hearings and go ahead this summer while President Caldwell said he could see no reason why a proposal should be sidetracked.

"I am convinced of this property which is unoccupied and a deterrent to the progress of the community," the president said. "We need the money despite the educational fund tax increase given us by the legislature, and I believe it would be better to put the value of the land into profit than wait until we can't let it lie idle."

I believe we have all the information we need and there is no use waiting with extended hearings."

Predicts Future Action.

Caldwell added that there will be no summer adjournment of the board and that the property sale question may be taken up two or three times.

The Austin tract, located on the west side in the district bounded by Roosevelt road, Madison street, and Central avenues, consists of acres of residential and business land.

Under a government grant from the land must go teachers' salaries.

Heard at its morning conference today is a recommendation of the civic expert committee, headed by Burton B. Riley, asking that all but a half dozen business lots be sold in small lots or as a whole, as suggested by the real estate group that the board immediately ask its council to advertise for bids at the highest.

Representatives of civic and business organizations, mostly from Austin, had the board room at the conference meeting.

Calls Market Opportunity.

Our committee is agreed that the best should sell the Austin property now," Mr. Riley told the trustees. "The period of rapid real estate growth for the last ten years is past and over the peak on residential property and unless there is a new time to sell is now."

Charles Schmid pointed out that W. G. Hogan wants 30 acres reserved for a future educational center from this reservation, he said, advised that the property should be sold.

Charles Vopolski agreed with Schmid, but said he thought too much authority should not be placed in the hands of the city council. Bids should be referred back to the school board for final action, he said.

Mrs. Heffernan's Warning.

At this point Mrs. Heffernan interjected with a series of questions and statements.

"What's all the hurry about?" she demanded. "Let's go more slowly."

No property held in perpetuity by the board for teachers' salaries, the members of the board come and go, there probably will be three new members appointed this week. Certainly we should hear from every one concerned before we proceed to put our valuable property on the auction block."

No circumstances must we allow this tract to get into the hands of unscrupulous real estate syndicates.

DEPUTY BAILIFF GETS 30 DAYS ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Sam Meyer, suspended deputy bailiff of the Municipal court and a henchman of Morris Eller, political boss of the west side, was found guilty of prohibition law violations by Federal Judge Lindley yesterday and sentenced to serve thirty days in the county jail and fined $500. Indictor Fox, a confederate, was given thirty days and a $500 fine.

Meyer was indicted and acquitted of participation in the 20th ward violence before the grand jury April 1, 1928, was arrested last fall and charged with ownership of a store at 610 Liberty street, where house was found by police. Fox, indicted at the same time, claimed he was the owner, but the bailiff, then serving at the Maxwell street court, denied ownership. They were indicted for possessing liquor and maintaining a nuisance.

They pleaded not guilty. Meyer has recently been serving in courtrooms in the police building at 11th and State streets.

Charles Vopolski agreed with Schmid, but said he thought too much authority should not be placed in the hands of the city council. Bids should be referred back to the school board for final action, he said.

QUAKE MOVES LOS ANGELES CITY HALL FOOT

Los Angeles, Calif., July 9.—(Special)—A major earthquake, heavier than most, caused buildings to shimmy and nerves to jump in Los Angeles, Ingleswood, Burbank, Santa Ana, and the Santa Fe Springs oil field region today.

Some towns reported two shocks although scientific apparatus at Carnegie Institution at Pasadena recorded the first tremor at 8:44 a.m. and the shudders continued for 15 seconds.

News of Chicago's latest tower was revealed in the issue of a building permit yesterday to the O. W. Rosenwald-Cornell company, which will have drawn plans for the building, which will soar to a height of 670 feet. With the land the project will represent an investment to be approximately $1,000,000.

Because of the commanding position the structure will occupy, it is to be ornate appearance, and it is planned to make it one of the finest office buildings in the country. Tentatively, the structure will be known as the "Eighth Street eighty-nine foot" tower.

The tower is to be built in the Ingleside live fault line, which has been producing three wells which had been producing. Hermosa beach, south of Ingleside, reported an eight foot tide that alarmed fishermen.

The quake followed the beginning of a two-year investigation and was started by some connection with the arrest and conviction of William R. Schmidt, former clerk in the Hawaiian United States court, and two wealthy Honolulu Chinese.

Mr. Schmidt bought the site in August, 1926, from the Sinclair Oil company for a price said to have been $1,250,000. Since that time Mr. Cuneo is reported to have rejected an offer of $4,500,000 for the property. At various times he was reported as having improvements in mind for the land, but the issue of a building permit yesterday was the first definite step.

The search was conducted by the state department and word was awaited as to the disposition of Mrs. Kao and her husband.

Mrs. Kao said the contents were the property of friends in China, who influenced her to use her diplomatic status to bring baggage into this country.

At their insistence, she said, she procured the certificates of exemption from search. She understood at the time, she declared, the baggage contained "presents" for friends of her friends in this country.

Fender was booming along at close to 100 miles an hour, its motor working smoothly, and the ship having no difficulty in maintaining its 600 feet altitude.

Favorable Weather Reports.

The takeoff of the pair came as the result of favorable weather reports for ocean flying from Dr. James H. Kimball of the United States weather bureau in New York. Dr. Kimball, a meteorologist, has been in communication with ships at sea for many weeks, endeavoring to give ocean flyers accurate details of weather conditions to be encountered along their routes.

Capt. Yancey has been waiting for more than a month at Old Orchard beach, and on the only two other occasions which promised good flying he and his pilot were thwarted at the start by the soft sands of the beach which caught the wheels of their former plane and caused it to "ground loop."

Check Fuel Consumption.

This time, however, the paid decided to take a chance by cutting their supply of gasoline from $40 to 440 gallons and to get out to sea regardless of the advisability of flying the night. They had little or no margin of fuel. They were overjoyed at the promise of tail winds by Dr. Kimball, hoping that such assistance would aid them in conserving their scant supply.

Just before the start Williams announced they would check the motor's fuel consumption during the first few hours of flight to see if it was extravagant. He would set back for another start with a larger supply.

The 500 spectators waited about the beach for several hours after the hop-off, but neither the Pathfinder nor Lieut. Melvin came into view and it was assumed that the communication was deemed enough for the flyers to reach their objective and that the coast guard planes had returned to its base. All vessels of the coast had been radioed to keep a close watch for all airplanes, but with visibility so poor that vision was limited to 500 yards no further news was heard.

Carry No Radio.

Williams and Yancey do not carry any radio set and will, therefore, not be in communication until they reach Rome. They have lightened their load by taking only absolute necessities, even discarding spare or heavy clothing. They carried no fares and no lifeboats, but were forced to land at sea there is little hope for them unless they alight near a ship.

Williams and Yancey rose at 6 and after a hearty breakfast prepared to the beach. The plane had been fueled during the night. A small box of food, two gallons of water and some hot coffee were landed into the cabin stop the long flight across the sky.

The two flyers, attired in light clothing, windbreakers and helmets, then mounted into the cockpit. After "revving up the motor" Williams nodded; Yancey leaned over to kiss his wife; the two set their goggles, closed the windows, and the long flight was on.

Rome Prepared Reception.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
ROME, July 8.—I was learned late this morning that Capt. Yancey and Roger Williams, piloting Bellanca monoplane, the Pathfinder, successfully took off from Old Orchard, Me., this morning on a 4,200-mile hop to the Eternal city. The population and officials of Rome are following the flight with the most intense interest.

It is the best news to come by aeromaritime authorities for the reception of the Pathfinder at the port of Litterio, a few miles north of Rome. The aviators are expected at Rome on Wednesday between 4 and 6 o'clock, enabling them to make a daylight landing. Police preparations are also being made to handle the enormous crowds which are expected to storm the landing field.

Italian air authorities tonight expressed the belief that the Americans have an excellent chance to successfully complete the flight.

American to Fly from South Africa to Berlin

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, July 8.—Ernest R. Finsler of St. Louis, Mo., today announced his intention of flying from this city to Berlin. The date for the attempt has not been fixed, but it will be made in a month's time, piloted by Lieut. R. R. Bentley. This is the same machine in which the lieutenant two years ago flew 7,000 miles from London to South Africa.

TORCH GIRL SAYS SHE KILLED TO HIDE HER PAST

Afraid Victim Might Tell Family.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toulon, Ill., July 8.—[Special.] Something of the mystery surrounding the death of a young old daughter of a wealthy farmer who killed and burned the body of Wilmer T. Kitselman, 62 years old, with whom she had lived for two years, was learned today by Sheriff W. O. Edwards. It was to shield and conceal that past that she committed murder, according to the story of the girl, who weighs 220 pounds.

The sheriff was sure there was another motive than her statement that she "got tired of looking at him in his drunken sleep." The girl was rational and unemotional. She laughed about some phases of the crime which made her the only prisoner in the Stark county jail.

Couldn't leave him. She says. "You couldn't have been afraid of him because you are twice his size."

The sheriff argued with her. "And if you didn't stay alone with him you could have left him."

"That's it. I couldn't," replied the girl, who says she is not afraid of possibilities of the electric chair. "He threatened to tell my folks we weren't married if I left him again. And he said he'd tell where he first met me."

"My mother died when I was young. My father decided to retire when I was 15 and he went to live with my married sister."

"After that I went to Peoria to work and I met a man who persuaded me to enter a resort. It was

VOLTAIRE'S 'CANDIDE' IS NOT OBSCENE, U. S. CUSTOMS MEN RULE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Careful reading of a copy has convinced customs officials that the text of an edition of Voltaire's "Candide" seized by agents at Boston, is not obscene within the meaning of the law and the books have been ordered released to their owner, it was announced today by Deputy Commissioner of Customs J. D. Nevius.

Mr. Nevius insisted the ruling that the book was not obscene go to publication is not a reversal of policy on the part of the customs authorities and is not intended to indicate any letup in enforcement of the prohibition against the importation of obscene matter.

The finding announced today, Mr. Nevius emphasized, applies only to the text of the edition seized at Boston and other translations or texts of the same work will be subjected to study before they are admitted, he said.

The deputy commissioner did not reveal the identity of the customs bureau official or officials chosen to determine whether Voltaire's classic should be barred.

Didn't want family to know. "He promised to marry me and never put me in a place like that again. So we came to Wyoming, Ill., to live and he got a job as a cook and I went to work in a knitting mill."

"He was mean to me and I went home to Naperville. He sent a letter to me addressed to Mrs. W. T. Kitselman and my father and stepmother wrote to him and told him to stop writing to him. He came and got me and told me that unless I went back to him he would tell them I had been an inmate of a house of ill fame."

"So I had to live with him and suddenly I decided to kill him."

BOOTLEgger AND OFFICER BOTH DIE IN BATTLE

Chillicothe, Ark., July 8.—[U.P.]—Walter Patterson, alleged bootlegger, and Marshal R. R. Marsh, 50, were shot to death in a gun battle early this morning. Deputy Sheriff John Pruitt and Constable Luther Meeks, had gone to Patterson's home to arrest him and his brother, Albert, on prohibition charges.

Walter Patterson submitted to arrest and then grabbed Marsh's pistol. He emptied it into the officer's body, killing him instantly. He then attempted to shoot Pruitt with the empty gun.

Meeks shot Walter Patterson to death.

Albert Patterson was arrested and brought to Onondaga county jail, where he is held on a bootlegging charge.

EVANSTON VOTES TODAY ON PLAN FOR NEW PARK

Evanston residents will vote today on the proposal to create a park district in the area between the northern limits of the suburb to Noyes street and between the drainage canal and the lake.

The special election was authorized by County Judge Jaroski on petition of residents who have held several mass meetings to devise means of preventing the proposed erection of a large apartment building at Ridge avenue and Central street.

The application for a building permit was filed by Gustave E. Seegren, a Chicago contractor. An aroused immediate opposition to the park proposal succeeded in forestall any possible inclination on the part of the city council to grant the permit.

The alimony department was established in 1926 by Mrs. Murphy, who has collected $1,000,000 in fees needed for food and clothing. The bureau is open to women who can afford to pay support their families, only those divorced or separated persons making payment.

If Ann Livingston yesterday, in point of time at least, was still a long way from the $25,000 she won in her love suit against Franklin Hardinge last Saturday, she was close to fame, the limelight, and riches, according to Benjamin Ehrlich, her attorney.

The lawyer said Ann has several offers to go into vaudeville and into the movies at handsome remuneration and that it had become only a question which the tall Tulsa divorcee will consider the most dignified and fitting for her to accept.

Workers of the department seek the offending husband persuade him that separation is resulting in hardship to his children. In almost every case the father is convinced and contributes through the bureau. The payments range from $6 to $30 a week. The department makes no charge for the collection.

Last May the department distributed $13,444, while the highest distribution in 1928 was $12,900. In the last six months of this year the department has paid approximately $10,000, as compared with $6,000 in the corresponding period of 1928. The increase represents a gain of almost 8 per cent.

Husbands' Approval.
The department is handling the case to the satisfaction of both parents, to the bewilderment of the children, and to the benefit of all concerned," Mrs. Donar said. "It has conclusively proved its right to function. The movement at first met opposition from lawyers, who feared that they might be robbed of a share of their livelihood, but now they have offered to aid us in any way we might see fit."

One child concern is the children. We make thorough investigation to determine whether the mother is to be entrusted with their care."

Osgood, 61 North Austin avenue, Oak Park, received a telegram from him dispatched from Fort Norman, a trading post, where his son saw white men for the first time since he embarked on his lone expedition.

Young Osgood's expedition was made in behalf of the Canadian National museum, and his studies will form the basis of his thesis in anthropology at the University of Chicago. His equipment consisted of a canoe, two rifles, twenty-four notebooks, a recording phonograph, and discs for recording native songs.

3 PLEAD GUILTY IN M'HENRY CO. RUM CONSPIRACY

Three of the forty-seven persons indicted in the McHenry county liquor conspiracy last year, entered pleas of guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Lindley. They were: Nicholas Stell, former McHenry postmaster; and Mathew Laure, and John A. Anderson, saloonkeepers. Among those who pleaded guilty were former Sheriff Lester Edinger of McHenry county and his brother, Loren Edinger.

Assistant United States District Attorney La Verne Norris told the court he hoped to have former State's Attorney Alford Pound of McHenry, and his brother, Loren Edinger,

"We'll take the case to the Appellate court and then to the Supreme Court if necessary," said John H. Bussian, for the manufacturer, said.

"I understand Miss Livingston will travel," said Mr. Hardinge with a native smile. "Well, she'll have a nice journey before she reaches the $25,000."

"But she says she's still fond of you, Mr. Hardinge?"

"She's a dapper manufacturer almost

"Yes?" with lifted eyebrows. "Well, I'm not still fond of her. She's off my books."

The manufacturer issued a signed statement in which he blamed Ann for any unpleasant publicity she may have got out of the trial. He said he had never seen "such a girl," and had even given her money to go back home to Tulsa when he let her just before they were, according to Ann, to be married.

"Let them appeal," Ehrlich said. "We'll get a larger verdict next time."

Why, eleven of the jurors in this case wanted to make it $100,000 instead of $25,000, they finally had to compromise with one who wanted to make it 15 cents."

ARBITER ON JOB; FORECAST ERA OF MINE PEACE

A new era of stability for the coal mining industry in Illinois was forecast yesterday by William B. Wilson, who took up his duties as arbitrator of labor disputes between Illinois operators and miners.

Wilson, who was secretary of labor under President Woodrow Wilson, was appointed with Joseph D. Zork, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' Labor Association. His father, Frederic S. Osgood, 61 North Austin avenue, Oak Park, received a telegram from him dispatched from Fort Norman, a trading post, where his son saw white men for the first time since he embarked on his lone expedition.

Young Osgood's expedition was made in behalf of the Canadian National museum, and his studies will form the basis of his thesis in anthropology at the University of Chicago. His equipment consisted of a canoe, two rifles, twenty-four notebooks, a recording phonograph, and discs for recording native songs.

"I am to act as the arbitrator of any disagreements that may arise between the miners and the operators in force between the operators and miners," said Wilson.

"My work will be final in any disputes which may arise."

Wilson denied that his acceptance as arbitrator meant that he had abandoned his contest for a seat to the United States senate. Wilson was the Democratic candidate for senator from Pennsylvania, out of which developed the Vare inquiry by the United States Senate.

For the miners the commissioners the participants will attend a luncheon under the auspices of the Association of Commerce in the Hotel Sherman.

Members of the Chicago Association of Commerce will join with the merchants of Clark street and representatives of the city administration tomorrow to celebrate the official opening of the new Clark street bridge. Plans for the celebration call for an automobile parade starting at 11:30 a. m. from Clark street and North avenue and ending at the bridge, where the formal dedication will take place at noon.

Following the ceremony the participants will attend a luncheon under the auspices of the Association of Commerce in the Hotel Sherman.

JOHNSON ORDERS INVESTIGATION OF BIG BOOZE THEFT

Admits Word from U. S.
Officials at Capital.

United States Attorney George E. Johnson began his own investigation of the $2,000,000 Sibley warehouse liquor steal yesterday. At the same time, W. C. Yellowley, prohibition administrative referee in Washington, and his reporters that, although no one of his office watched the Sibley twenty-four hours a day, none of them have yet come under suspicion after eleven months of investigation.

The district attorney appeared considerably piqued because he had not the slightest knowledge that the thief was in or out. Yellowley has engaged in no investigation, until now, of the facts of the steal in the newspapers last Thursday.

Signs La Rue to Job.

"At present my knowledge of the case is confined to what I have heard," Mr. Johnson said. "But now I know of the steal, I have assigned my executive assistant, Victor La Rue, to get to the bottom of it as quickly as possible."

Mr. Johnson communicated with the attorney general's office in Washington during the day and is awaiting further word on how to proceed with his investigation.

Although the district attorney had been kept in the dark since last August on the steal, a member of his staff who filed libels condemning the 200,000 gallons of bad whisky last Wednesday, had knowledge of it several days before the filing—knowledge that was not given to his chief.

Failed to Consult Chief.

Walter E. Wiles, assistant district attorney in charge of libels and until a little more than two months ago an attorney for the Chicago prohibition bureau, remained silent on the papers until Wednesday, the day before a holiday. And before he filed them, regardless of the tremendous importance of the theft, he did not consult with either Mr. Johnson or Mr. La Rue. Mr. Johnson had left for a short vacation in Michigan before the libels were put through the office of the clerk of the United States district court.

The special boozers, weakened by withdrawal of its legitimate contents and diluted with alcohol and other substances, is now technically in the custody of United States Marshal H. G. Laubenthaler, following the terms of an order issued by Federal Judge Carpenter on Friday. It is still stored in the Sibley warehouse, however, where it will remain until the marshal finds another warehouse to which it may be moved.

Booze to be Destroyed.

What should Laubenthaler do will not be determined again before he accepts its custody, has not been determined yesterday. The booze is now subject to a destruction order, which will probably be issued within a short time.

While Administrator Yellowley was silent when he considered the possibility of the steel, he intimated that it might have taken place before the whisky was gathered in from middle western cities to the Sibley concentration warehouse, or, if taken in the warehouse, that it was done before the building came under his control. The warehouse was put into his supervision on April 1, 1927.

CUSTOMS COLLECTOR AT DULUTH QUILTS POST AFTER HIS SUSPENSION

Duluth, Minn., July 8.—(AP)—To relieve the government of "any possible embarrassment" and "not to be hampered by an order suspending him as customs collector at Duluth," Oscar H. Dahly Saturday submitted his resignation to Assistant Treasury Secretary Lowman. The resignation is effective Tuesday and has been accepted.

Announcement of his resignation was made by Mr. Dahly upon his return here today from Washington, where on Saturday he had conferred with Mr. Lowman relative to the charges placed against him by customs inspectors, which resulted in his suspension last Wednesday.

Mr. Lowman, in announcing the suspension, said that the collector, in his opinion, was guilty of a conspiracy to extort money from law violators, conspiracy to falsify government accounts and conspiracy to smuggle liquor across the international boundary had been made against the Duluth customs collector.

In a statement announcing his resignation, Mr. Dahly asserted that "truth will prevail and time will vindicate me." He was appointed customs collector here June 22, 1922, and was re-appointed on March 4, 1927.

cate which I fear may be looking for just this sort of thing."

The discussion occupied fifteen minutes. President Caldwell then announcing that "the picture should now be clear to everyone."

There was no debate on Mrs. Hefner's motion for delay. When it was presented, Chairman Schmidt of the building and grounds committee, stated the committees would concur if there were no objections. There were none.

Bids on Other Leases.

Although the board will not act on the Austin tract tomorrow it is expected to take up at that time proposals for 29 year leases on three other valuable parcels, those at 23 South Dearborn street, 71st street and Jeffery avenue, and 103 street and Michigan avenue. Bids for these leases will be referred to the board's real estate expert committee, which Mr. Caldwell said may report back before the board meeting.

Abrraham Singer, representing the New Tremont Hotel corporation, was highest bidder for lease of the 23 South Dearborn street property. He offered rental of $43,500 a year for five years and a rent thereafter increasing annually to 6 per cent or an appraisal to be fixed by an appraiser committee. Mr. Singer announced that his company intends to remodel the hotel if it obtains the lease.

Joseph P. Walsh, 5403 Aberdeen street, bid highest on the 71st street and Jeffery avenue corner, with an offer of $43,500 a year for the first 25 years and a graduated scale thereafter. Gerrit Pon, 10324 South Michigan avenue, led the list of bidders for the lease of the property at 103d street and Michigan avenue. His offer was a rental of $4,500 a year for ten years with reappraisals each ten years thereafter.

SELL $40,000,000 WARRANTS

The board of education yesterday obtained from City Controller Schmidt the right to dispose of more than $40,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants for the relief of the educational, building, and playground funds. This, it was learned, was the outcome of a conference of the comptroller, President Caldwell of the school board, and a group of bankers who are to advance the money on the warrants.

The entire sum is to be paid to the credit of the school board on next Wednesday, according to a party to the conference, instead of being turned over at intervals as need for funds arises. The secrecy with which the negotiations were carried on and the terms of the sale were regarded as a move to minimize the possibilities of interference in the sale of the warrants from taxpayers' suits.

Use $15,000,000 for Buildings.

The money will be divided as follows: Thirteen millions dollars to the playground fund, and the remainder, in the neighborhood of $27,000,000, to the educational funds. The borrowing power of the board of education for the current year will be exhausted with the consummation of this loan, according to officials of the board.

It is expected that the first move following the payment of more than $5,000,000 in outstanding contractual obligations, which will permit the return of some of the funds on first school buildings in various stages of completion. Certificates of indebtedness, or "script," which have been issued to contractors who continued work after money in the building fund treasury was exhausted, will be redeemed at face value plus accumulated interest.

Bills Authorize Increase.

The increase in revenue for the school board represented by the sale of the current batch of warrants was authorized by two separate bills passed during the recent session of the legislature. House bill #38, which authorized an increase of 51 cents on the hundred dollars of assessed valuation for the educational funds, was placed on the school books without the governor's signature after a protracted fight against it by the mayor's victory committee and various civic organizations.

The high spot of the fight to increase taxation was taken by President Caldwell's attempt to enlist the aid of parents of public school children in forcing the bill through the legislature by obtaining their signatures on an avalanche of petitions to their legislators.

Opponents urged them to back the measure. Under the storm of public criticism and the disapproval of the mayor's committee, President Caldwell discontinued his card campaign.

City Meets Playground Bills.

The playground fund, exhausted before the close of schools for the summer vacation, was rescued by the city council's guarantee of funds to meet expenses until the schools closed. Senate bill #98, passed, like house bill #33, at the last session of the legislature, provided for an increase from three-tenths of a mill to one-quarter of a mill on the hundred dollars of valuation for the relief of the playground fund.

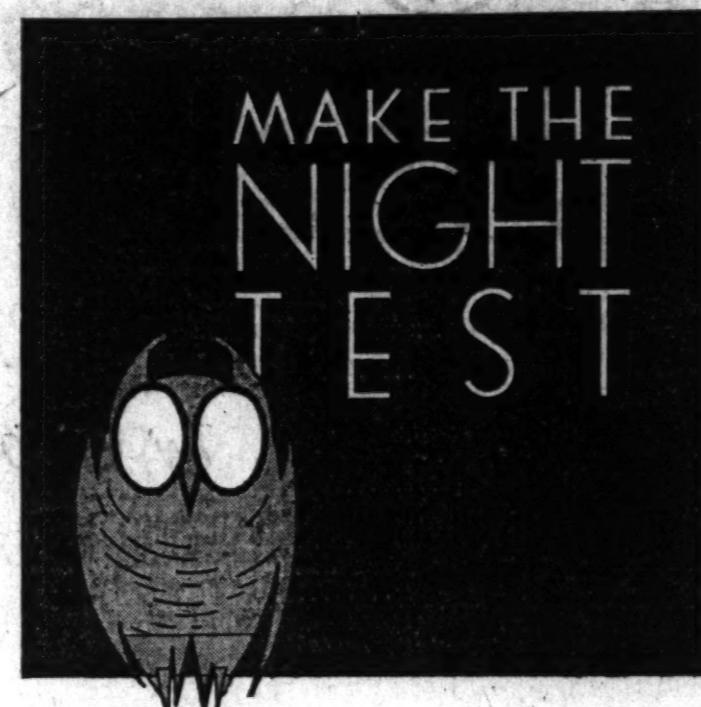

Both bills became effective July 1, and will give an extension of the board's borrowing power for the two funds. The names of the banking firms in the syndicates which will handle the warrants were not learned.

No relief is in sight for the free textbook fund, which was depleted at the same time the playground fund was exhausted. Thus no money is available for the purchase of new textbooks in the fall.

Flogging Would Be Proper Penalty, Wife-Beater Told

A flogging at the corner of State and Madison streets would be a proper punishment for wife beating. Judge Joseph W. Schulman declared yesterday when he sentenced Frank Parenti, 39 North Clark street, was arraigned in Chicago avenue court. Parenti's wife, Helen, who expects to soon become a mother, complained that he abused her and refused to provide for her. The husband was placed under a $1,000 peace bond and warned to secure more habitable living quarters for his wife before the day ended.

THOUSANDS OF NEGROES DENIED VOTE IN VIRGINIA

315,000 Over 21, but Only 15,000 Registered.

BY WILLIAM LAWSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Richmond, Va., July 2.—[Special.]—The recent decision of invalidating the Virginia Democratic primary law, has served to emphasize the fact that there are still states which do not give the right to vote in general elections in flagrant violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the 14th and 15th amendments to the federal constitution.

Time and time again Virginia spokesmen have risen in congress to challenge the charge and solemnly affirm that the literacy and other qualifications prescribed for voters in the state's election code apply with equal force to white as well as colored citizens and were not intentionally framed to disfranchise the Negroes.

Really Test White Men.

Investigation, however, leads to the unavoidable conclusion that the tests are rarely, if ever, applied to a white would-be voter while the knowledge of the existence of the stringent requirements has been sufficient in most cases to persuade the majority of colored eligibles against any attempt to exercise their constitutional rights.

In substance, the suffrage article in the Virginia constitution drawn by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] requires a would-be voter to be 21 years of age, a citizen of the state for at least two years, and in the county or city where he seeks to vote for at least one year.

In addition he must register, presenting his application for registration in his own handwriting without memoranda or other assistance of any kind and stating his name, business, residence and exact age on the date of his application. The catch is that a correct answer involves not only a literacy test, but an ability to compute. Finally, the applicant is required to produce a receipt showing the payment of a $1.50 poll tax at least six months in advance of the election.

sions over 21, in Virginia and yet it is estimated that in the 1928 presidential campaign more than 1,000 or 2,000 Negroes voted. The record shows that out of the entire Negro population only about 15,000 are registered as qualified voters.

In January, 1928, former Senator W. C. Bruce [Dem., Md.], then one of the leading wets in congress, during debate, told the south the task for circumventing the anti-prohibition provisions of the constitution while at the same time it demands blind obedience to the 18th amendment by other sections of the country. He declared the Virginia election laws and similar provisions in other southern states could represent the successful "exercises of legal tyranny" to nullify the 14th and 15th amendments.

"I say," declared Senator Bruce, after both Senators Claude Swanson [Dem., Va.] and Carter Glass had defended the Virginia law as within the letter of the constitutional amendments, "that if the southern states have the right, by the exercise of legal ingenuity, to nullify the 14th and 15th amendments, we have the right by any lawful means in our power to extricate ourselves from the tyrannous oppression of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act."

Glance Calls It Legal.

"Then why does not the senator exercise the immunity to do it?" retorted Senator Glass.

"We have enacted laws," declared Senator Swanson, "providing for qualifications and requirements for voting which we deem necessary to protect ourselves from a class of voters whose introduction into politics has been most ruinous, not only to ourselves, but to themselves and the entire community."

"One of the complaints frequently made against the profession is the lack of suitable provisions for the distribution of high class medical services to the mass of people at a cost within their means. "This plan consists, in brief, in each county of a medical center with a headquarters properly equipped for the diagnosis and treatment of all varieties of ambulatory patients.

"The organization should be in a sense, a pay clinic owned and controlled by the profession. Every person receiving services should pay. Those who are able to pay reasonable fees should be treated at the center and should be charged a fee depending on their economic status and the character of the services rendered. Those who are unable to pay anything are charges on the community and should be paid for by the community, to the extent that they can afford it."

"Articles are appearing almost daily in the popular magazines or the public press, which give expression to the layman's point of view on the subject.

"In some of these articles considerable criticism is directed at the medical profession, and the belief is often expressed that it is largely responsible for the present unsatisfactory situation.

"The national committee on the cost of medical care is undertaking a thorough study of all the factors that enter into the question, and it is hoped that the profession will cooperate heartily with the committee in its effort to reach correct conclusions."

"The national committee on the cost of medical care is undertaking a thorough study of all the factors that enter into the question, and it is hoped that the profession will cooperate heartily with the committee in its effort to reach correct conclusions."

"One of the complaints frequently made against the profession is the lack of suitable provisions for the distribution of high class medical services to the mass of people at a cost within their means. This I hold to be an undisputed obligation of the profession, and I have proposed a plan which I believe will enable it to meet this obligation fully, and which will result in great benefit to the masses as well as to the profession.

EXPECT ACTION ON PRINCIPLES OF CAR PLAN TODAY

Keller to Present Draft to Citizens' Group.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Assessment will probably be made before the fundamentals on which the preparation of an ordinance-franchise will be started to effect a consolidation of the surface lines and elevated roads.

Miss R. F. Keller Jr., engineering advisor of the city council local transportation committee, and Special Advertising Corporation Counsel John G. Emerson will be prepared to submit a restatement of the basic principles underlying the so-called Keller ordinance. These basic ideas were published last September. They will be presented to the citizens' committee, headed by Col. A. A. Sprague, at its meeting this morning in the office of Walter L. Fisher, attorney for the U. S. District court in transit matters. Expect O. K. on fundamentals.

Some additions and changes may be made by the citizens' committee, but it is believed that the fundamentals will be approved substantially as submitted. Perhaps, although it is still uncertain, the citizens' committee will make some comment on the major points upon which they are transmitted to the council local transportation committee.

Mr. McDonough (18th), chairman of the council committee, and other members are anxious to get started on the drafting of the ordinance if it is to be submitted to a referendum of the voters at the judicial election next November. The enabling legislation was signed by Gov. Emmerson on June 19, and 30 days have elapsed since without a plan of procedure having been announced. The only exception to that statement is the fact that the council committee has selected a group of three to preside upon the valuation of the elevated lines.

Faherty seeking $640,000.

President Faherty of the board of local improvements is urging that about $640,000 be set aside for the preparation of subway plans. His committee of experts headed by Benjamin Marshall, is said to have completed the design of a subway, and the next step consists of drawing up working plans and specifications.

Mr. Faherty does not insist that the cash be handed to the board of local improvements. He explained yesterday that a portion of the cash must be retained by the council committee. But he urged that cash be made available to get the plans ready. Mr. Faherty was to have conferred on the subject with Mr. McDonough, but the alderman was too busy trying to get work started on the drafting of an ordinance franchise.

BARGE SURVEY ON HENNEPIN CANAL BEGUN

Rock Island, Ill., July 2.—[Special.]—A survey of the Hennepin canal to ascertain how extensively barge line transportation can be carried on, today was made by Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the inland waterways division of Congressmen William E. Hall of Peoria and Maj. G. L. Hall of Rock Island.

The result of the trip will settle the possibilities for traffic on the water route from Rock Island to Chicago, providing Mississippi river barge service with a route shorter by three hundred miles than the Illinois River, to Minneapolis and St. Paul via the upper Mississippi.

A group of bargemen, specializing in bringing foreign embassies, learned that Mrs. Dewey had just recently joined her husband in Russia and concluded the house would be deserted.

The gang was unaware that after the big robbery in the French embassy two years ago all embassies, private homes and their members are carefully guarded.

WARSAW, July 4.—An attempt to rob the Warsaw home of Charles Dewey, financial adviser to the Bank of Poland, was made last Sunday during a heavy rain storm over the weekend. The burglar is a Chicagoan named Otto Fastic. Dewey, who was acquitted, was charged with having obtained sanitary district pay checks under the name of Attorney J. M. Laventhal and then cashing them to his own benefit. At the trial Fastic admitted getting the checks, but he did so at the suggestion of Attorney Laventhal and turned the money over to him. This had been denied by Laventhal.

True Parallels of Experience

To get at this business of cataloging the experiences of life is exceedingly difficult but rather alluring.

Academically, of course, the thing is not so hard. We can easily catalog the number of things that can possibly happen to the average individual in the average life. And we'll get ninety-five per cent of all the experiences of the human race.

We can go even farther than that. We can analyze the cause of nearly all those experiences down to a single word—jeopardy.

Jeopardy of life, of wealth, of love. Even the most thrilling of mystery stories must have its foundation in the jeopardy of some one of our most valued possessions.

So far, so good.

Every theatre, every popular novel, every movie works on that one principle—some one of a handful of well-known and easily cataloged experiences based upon the jeopardy to even a smaller handful of self possessions.

With this well-known bag of tricks all safely put into pigeon-holes, every play, every popular novel, every movie ought to be a success. Whereas the average of failure ranges from ten to one to a thousand to one.

So that usually, while the analysis is right, the answer is wrong.

Here at True Story Magazine, on the other hand, while we always get the right answer, we are not so entirely sure about the analysis.

It is interesting, however, if you chance to be interested. We think the answer lies in the fact that, while the experiences of life are pretty much the same, the emotional reaction to those experiences is constantly changing. And here at True Story we happen to be always in possession of the key to those changing emotions.

It also happens that in all the wide range of the publishing business, we chance to be the only ones who have that key.

Every other publisher in the world is trying to find out what the people want and give it to them.

Here at True Story Magazine the people not only tell us what they want but they also give it to us.

We can't make any mistake. If their emotions are changing, they change them. If they lean toward mystery stories, they give them to us. But that is not the best of it. When they get tired of mystery stories, they stop writing them. We never have to guess what they want nor when they are sick of it.

Up and down this land of America tens of thousands of men, women and boys are going from house to house, trying to persuade the American people that they ought to subscribe to this, that, or the other magazine. True Story hasn't a single circulation sales person on its payroll. Yet its circulation has climbed steadily, month by month and year by year, until it has long since passed into the millions.

It is silly to attribute this tremendous development to stories of sex, especially when half the fiction that is printed is fairly wallowing in sex; so much as to make the simple recitals of True Story appear to be hemming their skirts at the ankles instead of at the knees.

No; the analysis of the editor probably comes nearer to the truth. He says that we read in order to parallel our own experiences in what we read; that those experiences are more surely paralleled when they are based, not on fiction, but on fact; and that stories largely written in the first person carry more surely a verisimilitude of that experience. And finally, that True Stories usually affirm the ultimate rightness of life without which we cannot go on living.

But whatever the analysis, the result is the most interesting thing that has ever happened to us in our entire publishing career.

As we look down into this never-ending stream of personal manuscripts, we see not only the parallels of life experience repeated again, and again, and yet again; but we see that other parallel of economic change reflected as perfectly as a rock or a tree is reflected in a clear, still lake.

Right now that economic reflection is the reflection of a castle; a castle of dreams; a castle of dreams come true. A great upsurge of the common people of America has found itself on an economic level never even hoped for out of all its past. A whole new cultural spread of wealth and leisure for labor that did not come within the range of imagination even twenty years ago. And with it, a rather nice sense of selection in the comforts, the conveniences, and luxuries which are making such a glorious adventure out of modern life.

WHERE OUR MONEY GOES.

Illinois has passed Pennsylvania and is now the second state in point of income tax payments. Residents of Illinois paid 9 per cent of the total revenue received by the government from this source in the year ending June 30, 1929, although the population of the state is only slightly more than 6 per cent of the nation's whole population.

Illinois and northern Illinois in particular constitute one of the most significant economic units in the country. If the purpose of government expenditures on public works is to increase the nation's productivity, this state is one of the two or three places in the country where money might best be spent, it would appear, to best advantage. In fact, the federal government has been niggardly. We live close to the nation's center of population, yet there is no national recreation ground of any consequence within a day's ride of Chicago, though there are numerous sites such as the Illinois dunes, which would be admirably adapted to the purpose. An even more striking fact is the failure of the government to push the Illinois waterway to a speedy completion. The opening of the waterway cannot fail to be of great economic benefit to the region, but the federal government, which takes hundreds of millions of dollars from Illinois each year, has yet to find the four million required to bring the waterway to completion.

Our representatives in Washington, with few exceptions, speak for the Illinois of fifty years ago when the state constituted little, more than a thriving prairie hinterland, still sparsely settled. They seem not to have learned that Illinois is now close to the center not only of the nation's agriculture but of its population and manufacture as well. Our congressmen are still content to accept such crumbs as fall their way, and the money of Illinois is spent where hard-headed realists from other sections, unhampered by a sense of inferiority, want to spend it.

A BETTER AIR ROUTE TO NEW YORK.

An immediate duty of aviation is to find a better route between Chicago and New York. The air mail route over the Pennsylvania mountains is called justly the graveyard of aviators. It is perhaps the most dangerous regularly flown over territory on the continent, all conditions considered. It should be abandoned. The route from Chicago to Buffalo along the lake shore, and from Buffalo down the Mohawk valley is comparatively safe for amphibians but is roundabout. It should not be difficult to locate and maintain a route between Cleveland and New York which would skirt the northern extremities of the Pennsylvania mountains, with possibly the exception of a few short spots. Such a route would be shorter than the lake and valley route and perhaps as safe.

This is an improvement in service which can be accomplished and should be without delay.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL COURT IN ENGLAND.

Mr. J. E. Stevens, a landowner of Cambridgeshire, England, is out of jail. He and his fellow countrymen were mightily astonished when he was found to be legally seated away. He did not get out until he had made his peace with the ecclesiastical court which put him in, and Great Britain is contemplating with some curiosity and some dismay a sturdy survival of medievalism, the power of the church to send a subject over the road.

Mr. Stevens owns some land which had been conveyed some 800 years ago by the church under conditions which required the owner to make repair. The chancel of the church in Huxton, needed repair, and the vicar, rediscovering the terms of the deed, called on the landowner to comply with them. The cost would have been inconceivable and the owner was well to do, but, being of the bulldog breed, he refused to submit to any such nonsense. The vicar, being of the same breed, determined to maintain the rights of the church. He organized an ecclesiastical court, and before the prisoner or any one else could take a full breath the recusant was in jail for contempt on a writ which the sheriff honored. He was there until he purged himself, the greatest curiosity in the kingdom. There are said to be over a hundred similar cases, and the church, now confident in its authority, proposes to bring other property owners to terms.

The British may be inclined to take a look in the old trunk and see what other hoileums it contains. They may find they have trial by combat and the procuring of testimony with the boot or thumbtack. It may be legal process in the search for witchcraft to throw the suspect, in the water and burn him if he doesn't sink. It may be a capital offense for a nonconforming Dissident to be found within five miles of a village or town. The king may have the power of divine healing. It may still be the law that women convicted of capital offenses shall be burned to death as a special protection of their modesty.

The modern state keeps considerable junk in the attic, and now and again an enterprising adventurer gets out one of the old blunderbusses and finds it still loaded.

THE REVEREND DOCTOR WOULD NOT CARE FOR THE MARINES.

The Rev. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals, asks for the marines to enforce Volstead at the point of the bayonet. The good doctor knows his intolerance thoroughly, but he couldn't get the kind of work he wants out of the American military forces. A rude and licentious soldiery is required for the proper working of the dragonade, and the American soldier is not low enough morally to raise the hell the reverend doctor would like to raise.

The Oklahoma killers who shot two farmers in an unwarranted raid are the proper agents for the Rev. Mr. Wilson's purposes, and there are many of them. Three of these men, including the one who did the shooting, had no authority. They were trespassing on the farm and was prowling around the chicken house when the farmers came out, Harris with a shotgun, to see what he was doing. The noble experimenter did not give them a chance. The two ex-service men who had served their country were shot before they had a chance either to defend themselves or to escape.

Dr. Wilson should count his blessings. He has Dr. Doran and Mr. Lowman in Washington convinced that this is proper procedure in accord with law, morals, and humanity, and their superiors in government have not interfered. Dr. Wilson and his board have ordained that a citizen has no rights in his home or on the public road that any prohibitionist with a gun need respect. The noble experimenters are not required to have authority, commissions, or warrants. All they need is a gun, a pocket full of ammunition, and the writings of Dr. Wilson. The first person they see is a fair shot.

The good doctor would not be well served by the marines. They would have too much decency, kindness, and disciplined respect for law to kill farmers or automobile drivers for the fun of it. Prohibition enforcement has precisely the personnel it needs for the work it has undertaken.

SELLING THE CANAL BANKS.

Manufacturers have been solicited to buy sanitary district property along the drainage canal for factory sites and the campaign to populate the canal banks with industrial plants will continue. The district has title to six thousand acres of land along thirty-two miles of canal water front, which is valued conservatively at $20,000,000. The plan to dispose of this property for private development is supported by the best business principles.

If the prospective revenue from the sale of canal property is used legitimately, the taxpayers may be relieved appreciably of the burden which has been projected by the construction of sewage treatment works and other adjustments involved in the Supreme court decision on diversion at Chicago. The sanitary district has no conceivable use for this land, and to hold it if there is a market for it, or if a market can be created is virtually real estate speculation, an improper activity for any public organization.

Mr. Komarck, manager of the district's real estate department, is confident that the canal bank sites are suitable for factories. He has accompanied a group of business men on a trip through the canal and similar sales excursions are planned for the future. The virtue of a canal site is its accessibility to water transportation. At present the canal is navigable for barges, but larger vessels from the lake can travel the channel if arrangements are made for opening the bridges. The nineteen bridges across the canal are of the bascule type, but they are not equipped with motor power for operation. This condition should be corrected so that potential buyers may have the full service of water transportation as soon as they purchase property.

Editorial of the Day

A POPULAR VACATION.

[Grand Rapids Press]

As of June 10 the applications for enrollment in citizens' military training camps throughout the country had reached 10,000 and exceeded the quota.

This form of vacation increases in popularity every year.

Patriotism has its part in drawing enrollment,

but so has health.

The highest priced physical culture camp, provided over by a "health studio" expert and frequented by millions, offers no better physical discipline and health and muscle building than these summer military camps.

The man who attends these camps feels like a fighting cock, which is the way to feel in business as well as on a battlefield.

He is a better man, a happier man, easier to get along with at his work and at home.

The same cannot be said of many vacations in which health and true recreation are sacrificed to the family's social desires and the "vacationing" parent or husband wastes nervous energy worrying about cash and the next change of clothes. He might have enjoyed more relaxation at the office. Perhaps the increasing complexity of modern vacations is one factor in making the military camp so welcome a change. Another is the fact that for many who hated military discipline during the war and are now easily-winded and past thirty, the old days of "setting out" and "quads right," of "company boxing" matches and a constant feeling of being "in the pink," are acquiring a constantly rosier hue in reacquisition.

Several Michigan firms are granting time for the citizen camps in addition to regular vacations. They estimate the investment in physical fitness is worth it.

Whether as a "second vacation" or as the only one, the C. M. T. C. annual hardening process is destined to win increasing favor and in time the government may find it well to increase the grant.

PAVING PRINCETON AVENUE.

Chicago, July 6.—(Friend of the People)—THE TANBINS recently printed a statement that they and Princeton residents were to be responsible for paving Princeton Avenue, the main street of Princeton, through north and south streets, but no statements were made as to when it was intended to open and pave Princeton Avenue from West 37th street to West 59th street, a section that had never been opened or paved and had badly needed to complete and make Princeton Avenue a through north and south street.

Also West 38th street has never been opened from West 37th street to the art school, where the Pennsylvania railroad and the Western Indiana railroad had a subway in order that West 38th street could be opened but the city has never made any attempt to open it. The opening of these streets is now a great need for Englewood traffic. The only streets now open to traffic are Halsted street and Wentworth avenue to the north.

A. J. Johnson, Princeton Avenue from Princeton Avenue to Wentworth, states:

"There is no protection in this office for opening Princeton Avenue between 37th and 39th streets, nor for opening 38th street between Wentworth and Stewart avenues. If these streets are to be opened to the property owners, we shall be glad to hear from them with petitions."

MUST PAY RENT.

Chicago, July 6.—(Legal Friend of the People)—If a tenant has no lease on an apartment and the landlord makes living conditions unbearable, can the tenant refuse to pay rent for one month so as to reimburse him for expenses of moving out of said apartment?

Mrs. G. E. L.

No, it is as almost inviolate rule that a tenant will not be evicted unless in his refusal to pay rent while he remains in possession.

THEORY ON BALDNESS CAUSE.

D. FREDERICK A. COOK

advises against the use of hair tonics of every sort because he regards them as wasteful of money and time.

He has a theory as to the cause of baldness. He says:

"Hair heads are due to a loose body skin hanging on the full weight of the head like a coat on a peg." He says that for several years he has stripped and closely examined every bald headed man who came into the hospital. "In all there is the same effect, a loose skin hanging on the top of the head where all is bare."

Again, he speaks of "the pull of the body skin around the north pole of the head." He describes the skin of a bald head as follows:

"It is glossy, pale and lacking the suburface ruddiness. If cut, it does not bleed profusely as does a normal skin. The skin is thin, soft, moist and moist horn in texture. Its soft, spongy substance is replaced by tough layers of stringy fiber which is seemingly coaxed to the bone."

He continues:

"The hair is hard, thin and almost horny in texture. Its soft, spongy substance is replaced by tough layers of stringy fiber which is seemingly coaxed to the bone."

WEST PARK CHIEF EYES SPEEDWAY WORK IN N. Y.

Studies Elevated Highway Problems.

BY TOM PETTEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) New York, July 8.—(P.—) "I hope another year will pass before we have a highway on the west side of Manhattan in Chicago as they are along the Hudson river in New York," said Mr. John Hill Robertson, president of the Chicago West Side Park commission, as he sat in his room at the McAlpin hotel today.

Dr. Robertson and Sol Westerfield, treasurer of the park commission, are in New York on a two-fold mission. They are inspecting the actual beginning of work on the Manhattan west side elevated highway and are calling on bankers to ascertain the marketability of tax anticipation warrants, the sale of which is necessitated by the deferred tax levy of 1929 in Chicago. They are also placing the actual sale of the Chicago tax warrants but are only can-

The Chicago elevated highway proposition has already won the approval of the Illinois legislature. Permission has been granted the west side park to place a $20,000,000 bond issue before the voters.

Study Runways Problem.

On their visit here the two Chicagoans have been studying the advantages of New York's elevated highway as an effect of business through whose territory it runs. They have paid especial attention to the controversy in New York over the location of the ramps, or runways, leading to and from the elevated structure.

"The location of the ramps connecting with the highway," said Dr. Robertson, "seems to be one of the biggest problems in New York. They tell me at the city hall and along the streets affected that every merchant is clamoring for a connecting outlet somewhere near his place of business.

"Of course, this is impossible, but here in New York I find that most of the merchants have been sold on the advantages of the elevated motorway. It goes through the heart of six blocks from the entrances to the highway they realize that the new road is going to swell their business. In New York there will be no pedestrian traffic on the seventy foot highway, but the merchants have been looking into statistics, which, they tell me, show that every fourth motor car carries shoppers.

Will Get Share of Business.

"They feel that if these motorists who drop down to the street level anywhere within the first four blocks of their place of business they will lose their share of new business. Consequently the location of the entrances to the New York highway is one of the most important questions before the city officials."

"In Chicago," said Mr. Westerfield, "we are doing our best for the merchants along the proposed highway to have street level entrances to their places of business. There will be ample parking space both on the speedway level and beneath. Every one knows that a suburbanite had rather shop a few miles from home than in the loop. When the road is completed it will be a matter of which merchant offers the best bargain, and business men all along the route will be surprised at the increased business that will be forthcoming."

The theory that all Chicago wants to shop in the loop was discounted by Dr. Robertson.

"We have learned on this trip," said the park president, "that the suburban merchants here who have places of business on boulevards are making money. Yesterday we drove from Folly Bay, in Waukegan county, to downtown Manhattan. We saw ample parking facilities in front

PAPERS IN CIVIL SUIT TO OUST GOV. KOHLER SERVED BY SHERIFF

Kohler, Wis., July 8.—(P.—) Papers in the civil action seeking to oust Gov. Walter J. Kohler from office for alleged violation of the corrupt practices act were served on the chief executive here today by Sheriff Harold Smidell of Dane county.

The governor smilingly accepted the papers in the proceedings from the sheriff and gave him a cigar. The sheriff left Madison this morning but was delayed in arriving here by dire trouble.

The governor issued a brief statement in which he said:

"The people of Wisconsin know that my record is clear, and I do not intend to allow this move of my political opponents to interfere with the official business of the state."

of almost every store in the outlying districts and no place at all to park in the congested districts.

"Like a number of New York boulevards, the Chicago elevated highway will cross busy side streets. In fact, we will cross 78 roads between the Chicago river and the western terminus. Not only will the speed of travel between these areas be greatly facilitated, but every one of these cross streets will benefit from increased trade. New York long ago has learned that the motorist, both visiting and permanent resident of the suburban territory, is going to utilize the swiftest and most modern entrance into the city. They are going to stop by the way."

The Chicago Tribune, a most excellent newspaper, recently reproduced in an attractive newspaper size circular fourteen pages of Food and Grocery Product advertising which had appeared in the columns of that newspaper in one week (April 21 to April 27).

The advertisements reproduced by The Tribune make an impressive array and represent a substantial volume. For the same week (the one selected by The Tribune) the Post-Dispatch, however, carried a more impressive array and a larger volume. The figures follow:

St. Louis Post-Dispatch . . .	31,818 Lines

The Post-Dispatch congratulates the Tribune and in a friendly spirit of non-competitive rivalry sets a new goal for that newspaper.

RHINE INDUSTRY REFUSES O. K. ON YOUNG DEBT PLAN

Calls It Political, Not Business Solution.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
BERLIN, July 8.—The "Langham Verein" association for the protection of economic interests in the Rhine and Westphalia today held a meeting of the chiefs of Germany's most important industries at Dusseldorf. Three German experts at the Paris reparations experts' conference, Dr. Albert Vögler, Dr. Carl Melchior, and Dr. Kort, reported on their negotiations under the chairmanship of Owen D. Young. It is estimated that about 30 per cent of Germany's industrial fortunes were represented at the meeting.

The board of directors of the association unanimously agreed that "the Young plan represents a political, not a business, solution to the reparations problem." Consequently the leaders of Rhine and Westphalian industry refuse to endorse the plan, which it is impossible to fulfill.

Fear Germany Must Borrow.

"I estimate that if we accept the Young plan, Germany will borrow $50,000,000 abroad in the next two years, which is bound to lead to a general sale of all our assets," Dr. Vögler, who resigned from the German delegation at Paris, said.

Paul Reusch, director of important mills, said that "this year German business will buy $5,000,000,000 worth of foreign goods, and that in 1928, in wage increase, social taxation, reparation taxes, and freight taxes, which shows that business is thoroughly unhealthy and a crisis is near."

A report from Wiesbaden tonight said the British military authorities had informed that German employees mostly clerks, that their services would no longer be needed after Sept. 1. This is taken as an indication that the British expect to be on their way home by that time.

France Rejects London.

PARIS, July 8.—(AP)—Great Britain and France are still at odds as to the place where the forthcoming conference to put the Young reparations plan into effect shall meet.

The French viewpoint is that it, as the Germans declared during the experts' conference, the atmosphere of Paris is unsuitable for negotiations to settle the reparations question, London would be no more advantageous.

FRENCH DEPUTIES READY TO WRANGLE OVER WAR DEBTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, July 8.—After three postponements debate on ratification of the American and British war debts is due to come before the French chamber of deputies on Thursday, when it is expected that the government will set out politely to railroad ratification through with reservations contained in a separate text, regardless of the decisions are finally made by the finance and foreign affairs commissions, which are still mulling over their drafts.

In the meantime the left group is preparing to play its last card to force a bargain vote in favor of ratification for the government's promise to evacuate the Rhineland. A motion to this effect will be made in the meeting of the finance commission tomorrow by Vincent Auriol, radical socialist.

During the meeting the commission will be forced to take a stand on the question as well as accept a definitive report recommending that the reservation be included in the ratification text—a procedure which the government has already declared it will not accept.

VAUDEVILLE STAR WEARS DISGUISE TO GAIN DIVORCE

Aileen Stanley, veteran vaudeville performer, recently featured in musical comedies, went in for serious drama by taking the role of an "unknown woman" to win a divorce from her accomplished husband, Charles N. Bushnell, before Superior Court Judge Gemmill yesterday. When the curtain fell with her precipitous exit everyone was convinced of her identity except herself.

She entered the courtroom attired in a severely tailored serge suit reaching to her ankles, a nondescript hat at a ludicrous angle, tortoise shell glasses on a full Roman nose, and waiting an odor of mothballs. The inevitable wrinkles of woolen underwear, displayed as she crossed her ankles on the stand, heightened the character role.

"That's Aileen Stanley," the bailiff whispered to the clerk. The whisper echoed through the room, until all had heard except her attorney, John K. Murphy, who had his reasons for being taken in by the acting.

In a quivering falsetto, she descended from her perch as drunkard, Alice Hirst, 2 years old, who killed yesterday in the apartment house at 6616 North Avenue.

VALUE DONNELLEY ESTATE AT MORE THAN $10,000,000

The inventory of the estate of Reuben H. Donnelley was filed yesterday in the Lake county Probate court. It listed personal property estimated at "more than $10,000,000" and real estate at $175,500. Mr. Donnelley died in his apartment at the Blackstone hotel Feb. 25. He was 84 years old.

The estate lists $8,000 shares of common stock of Montgomery Ward company, with a market value of $9,632; $1,000 in bonds of the same company, with a market value of $9,750,000. These two items alone total nearly 19 million dollars, though the formal appraisal is only $10,000,000. The inventory also lists $685,885 in cash, 3,480 shares in the R. R. Donnelley & Sons corporation, and 19,500 shares in the Reuben H. Donnelley company.

Mr. Donnelley will leave the bulk of his estate to his children, Thea Donnelley and Mrs. Eleanor Baldwin. The document listed 83 legatees, including employees, relatives, and friends. The will made several charitable and philanthropic bequests.

Note to Wife Explains Suicide in Kenilworth

A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury in the Evanston homicide case of the death of Lynn Lynn, 51 years old, 821 Pleasant avenue, Kenilworth, who shot himself fatally on the lawn across from his home shortly after midnight. Lynn, part owner of a Kenilworth grocery, left a note to his wife, Clara, declaring his finances were sound with $100,000 to his credit and asserting that quarrels with a relative prompted him to kill himself.

She entered the courtroom attired in a severely tailored serge suit reaching to her ankles, a nondescript hat at a ludicrous angle, tortoise shell glasses on a full Roman nose, and waiting an odor of mothballs. The inevitable wrinkles of woolen underwear, displayed as she crossed her ankles on the stand, heightened the character role.

"That's Aileen Stanley," the bailiff whispered to the clerk. The whisper echoed through the room, until all had heard except her attorney, John K. Murphy, who had his reasons for being taken in by the acting.

In a quivering falsetto, she descended from her perch as drunkard, Alice Hirst, 2 years old, who killed yesterday in the apartment house at 6616 North Avenue.

The Sun's Lead for the Fourth Twelve Months, 3,180,632 lines

All figures are official except for the month of June, 1928, the figures for that month being from The Sun's records.

WHAT was the question asked by a publisher visiting New York on his way back from Europe. He was from the far West and not quite up to date on newspaper conditions in New York. When he was told that The Sun was outstandingly first in advertising among New York evening newspapers his comment was, "How long has this been going on?" "For four full years," was the answer to his question.

June completes the fourth year. Every month during that time The Sun has exceeded in advertising lineage any other New York evening newspaper and that lead, which started at the inconsequential figure of 21,260 lines, has grown into the hundreds of thousands.

The entire record for the four years, month by month, is tabulated in the adjoining panel.

Along with this increased lineage and leadership have grown prestige and result production. Along with it, too, there have been ever increasing appeal and confidence on the part of the advertiser and The Sun's buying public—a family of more than 300,000.

ARABS OF PERSIA IN REVOLT; PERIL THRONE OF SHAH

Priests Stir Fierce Tribes
Against Modern Ways.

BY J. BASIL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
TEHRAN, July 8.—The situation in southern Persia is growing more serious, with the reported uprising of a nomad Arab tribe which migrated to Persia 1,000 years ago with invading Arabian armies. Fear that the fierce Bakhtiari tribesmen are also planning to enter the fray was revealed today when the minister of war suddenly departed for Isfahan, the native province of the tribe.

The state fears a repetition of the Afghanistan story, with the shah being driven out by reactionary forces headed by priests, who inflame the tribes against modernization. If the death blow is not delivered to the insurgents soon, it is probable that other groups will join them. Making concessions is considered also bad policy since it is taken as a sign of weakness by the tribes. The government's only choice is to continue fighting in an attempt to force definite submission of the rebellious nomads.

Shah Wide-Awake to Danger.

The minister of war himself is a member of this tribe and it is hoped

HOLY SEE PROTESTS CENSORSHIP; NUNCIO VISITS ITALIAN KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
ROME, July 8.—Intimations of the beginning of a strong fight by Vatican authorities against Italian censorship of Catholic newspapers is given tonight by the official Vatican paper, Observatore Romano, which makes a violent protest against the sequestration of the Catholic newspaper, Youths' Life, or Vincere.

The second reason given for suppression was that the editorial "mentioning false reports about young Catholics being harassed with all kinds of persecutions."

Previous to the publication of this editorial Msgr. Borgognoni, Duomo papal nuncio to Italy, called this morning and presented his credentials to King Victor Emmanuel. The king's return to Rome today also gave rise to reports that he will make his first call on Pope Pius XI, some time next month.

The state fears a repetition of the Afghanistan story, with the shah being driven out by reactionary forces headed by priests, who inflame the tribes against modernization. If the death blow is not delivered to the insurgents soon, it is probable that other groups will join them. Making concessions is considered also bad policy since it is taken as a sign of weakness by the tribes. The government's only choice is to continue fighting in an attempt to force definite submission of the rebellious nomads.

Shah Wide-Awake to Danger.

The minister of war himself is a member of this tribe and it is hoped tions to the front. Armistice negotiations, however, have broken down without result and hostilities are expected to recommence.

Purchase German Fighting Planes.

The government is making considerable use of armored cars, an ordinary automobile transport being unable to face the possible membership of the tribesmen, whose sharpshooters pick off soldiers in unprotected cars. Fighting planes purchased from Berlin have arrived and are being sent to the south, where they will be even more useful, it is believed, than the armored cars, since the mountainous nature of the country makes all road transport necessarily slow.

Airplanes will do much bombing of herds and livestock in an attempt to bring the fighters to terms by cutting off their chief source of food. Flying also they will bomb the settlements of the nomads, but it is not likely because such tactics might arouse peaceful tribes against the government.

M'GURN DEMANDS QUICK TRIAL, BUT JUDGE SAYS "NO"

Jack McGurn, north side racketeer and bootlegger, told the court today under indictment for the St. Valentine's day massacre of seven members of the George Moran gang, wanted a trial yesterday, but couldn't get it. His attorney, Thomas D. Nash, wanted a jury called into the box at once, but Assistant State's Attorney Harry D. Dimon said that the prosecution was not ready.

Judge Jacob Hopkins agreed to the request of the state and the case was continued to Aug. 15, but it was indicated by the prosecutor that even then he might not be ready for trial. If not, Attorney Nash will file his third demand. The fourth will his silent.

MacDonald's Use of Royal Air Force Planes Stirs Foes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, July 8.—Prime Minister MacDonald's recent trips in a royal air force airplane, especially his Saturday flight to Durham when he addressed a labor women's meeting, are being challenged by members of the opposition in Commons. The Conservatives object to the prime minister making use of the facilities of one of the fighting services merely to indulge in party-propaganda, and threaten to force debate on the subject.

NEW TWO YEARS AGO —IN THE MODE TODAY

The Lincoln's perennial beauty is untouched by passing fads and fancies. The Lincoln that first saw service two years ago is still one of the smartest cars on the boulevard. Its beauty is independent of time and place... This two-year-old car is admired today for the fine thing it is—a Lincoln.

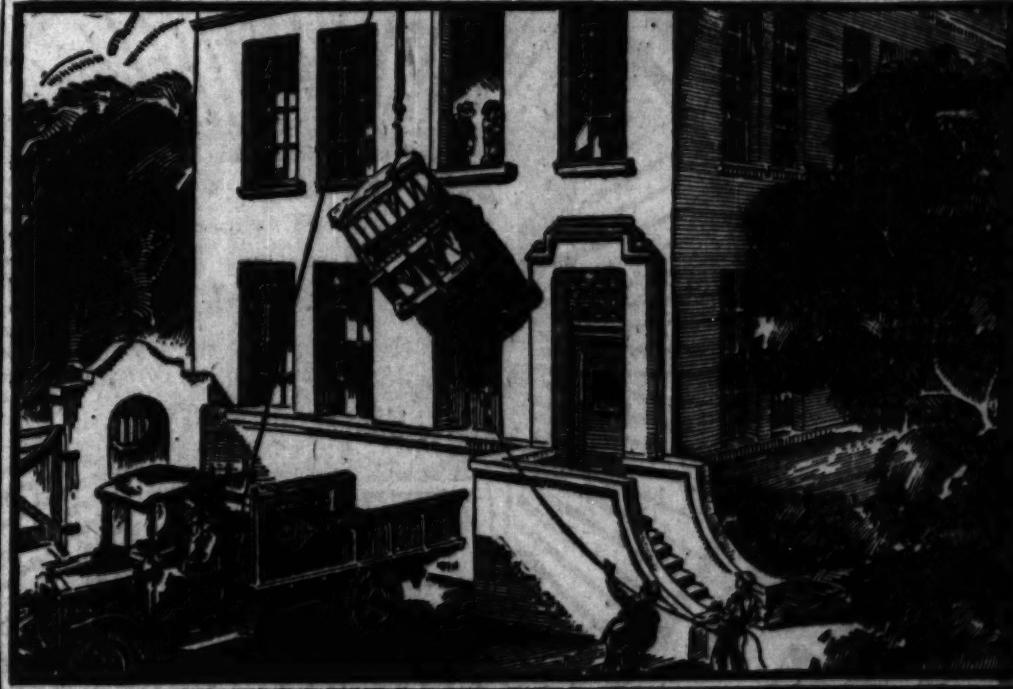

Lincolns that have stood the test of service—splendid cars with only a few thousand miles of use—are purchasable at prices that in no way indicate their true values. These cars are as smart—as much in the current mode—as new cars. They are as powerful, as quiet, and as thoroughly capable as a car can be made. They will provide a kind of satisfaction in motoring difficult to experience outside Lincoln ownership.

A few such Lincolns are now to be seen on the floors of the authorized Lincoln dealers listed below. These companies are the only Lincoln dealers in the city of Chicago and suburbs authorized by the Lincoln Division of the Ford Motor Company to sell and service Lincoln automobiles. If you are considering the purchase of a used Lincoln, your own best interest demands that you deal only with one of these four authorized Lincoln dealers.

AGAIN... the outstanding oil burner of the year

WITH sales for the first six months of 1929 double those of the corresponding months for last year, Silent Automatic's leadership in major metropolitan centers grows still more commanding. Remarkable records are being established in leading cities... records without parallel except previous Silent Automatic accomplishments.

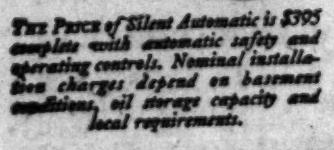

Philadelphia home owners purchased 434 Silent Automatic Oil Burners in May alone. More than $200,000 was spent in 31 days for the cleanliness and comfort that Silent Automatic gives. In Detroit, Silent Automatic continues to outsell all other oil burners COMBINED. Boston reports sales almost equally large. The progress of Silent Automatic in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other large cities grows more rapid each month.

Only marked superiority and the complete satisfaction of owners could be responsible for such a march to national leadership. The same superiorities and assurance of perfect service will be the vital consideration to YOU when you select YOUR oil burner.

The very best time of the entire year to install your Oil Burner is right NOW. There will be no disturbance of household routine. Then, when the first cool days of fall arrive, you will be READY. And next winter there will be no handling of coal or ashes; no work of firing the boiler or furnace; no chilly or overheated home. The absence of coal dust and ashes will cut housework in half.

Investigate the Silent Automatic burner at once. Learn about the superlatives that have been responsible for its leadership. Get from owners this most remarkable story of OWNER SATISFACTION. There are sound reasons behind Silent Automatic's sensational rise, and these reasons are vital to you... an investor in oil heat. See the "Silent" before you make your choice.

The Price of Silent Automatic is $395 complete with automatic safety and operating controls. Nominal installation fees charged depend on basement conditions, oil storage capacity and local requirements.

N.Y. CURB STOCKS ADVANCE ALONG A WIDE FRONT

Numerous Issues Score
Impressive Gains.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Resumption in pool operations based on reports of increased shipments brought a jump of 19½ points in Grigsby-Grunow to a high of 17½% in yesterday's weak session of the Chicago stock market, thereby featuring an otherwise dull day brought on by a rise in the call money rate of from seven to nine per cent.

The market as a whole was fractionally lower. Auburn Automobile being the leader on the down side with a drop of fifteen points. Ben-Dix Aviation was up more than a point in early sales but lost most of its gain. Borg-Warner was fractionally lower.

Fellow in Wake.

Some of the other major shares followed in the wake of Grigsby-Grunow, which had up 2½% and American Radio established a further recovery of 2½%. U.S. Radio came back 1½% and Zenith was up a fraction.

Gains up to three points were established by some of the miscellaneous issues with Super Maid, in the lead on a three point rise. Modine and White Star Refining each added 1½% and Butler Brothers and Brown's Fence each sold off higher.

Brown's Fence "B" was up 1%.

Electrical Household Utilities improved fraction on announcement that shipments from the corporation's Canadian plant, which was opened last month, had reached a steady increase in business. Altorfer Brothers advanced a point and the A stock was down a fraction. S. H. Altorfer, president, announced that the company has established retail price cuts on its two best selling washing machines of $10 and $15. He added that the cut was made possible by increased sales.

Middle West Utilities led the insulin issues with a five point gain. Public Service of Northern Illinois no stock was up three points and Central and Southwest Utilities sold up two points, after which it lost its grinding and a point in addition. A. M. Castle was also up a point.

Sales Gain 20 Per Cent.

Perfect Circle was off a fraction. C. N. Lester, president, reported net earnings Monday, May 21, show a gain of 26 per cent over a year ago, with net profit up 52 per cent. Combined net profits of Alaworth and the Joseph N. Smith company, which was recently acquired by Alaworth, for the four months ended April 30 were $259,941, or $3.16 a share, on the 100,000 shares outstanding. The dividend that used in the acquisition.

Pines Winterfront sold up 1½ in response to a statement by James P. Ralston, president, that production costs will be drastically lowered through the installation of rapid automatic screw machines.

LAKE SHORE BANK PUTS J. R. THOMPSON, E. L. BURKE ON BOARD

Stockholders of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank have elected John R. Thompson Jr., president of the John R. Thompson company, and Eugene I. Burke, president of the Upper Avenue bank, as directors. The addition of Mr. Thompson to the directorate follows his activity in developing the north central district, where his company is a major property owner.

JOHN R. THOMPSON. The election of Mr. Burke marks another step in establishing a community of interest between the new Upper Avenue bank and the Lake Shore Trust and Savings and the First National banks. William S. Kline, president of the Lake Shore institution, also is a director of the Upper Avenue bank, of which Roy C. Osgood, vice-president of the First Union, is a member. Frank G. Cran, B. Haasheyden, vice-president of the First National, also is chairman of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank.

New high marks on the present bulge were reached by cattle, hogs, and lambs yesterday. Top for hogs at $12.15 equals the highest since Sept. 26 and shows an advance of 76¢ since the previous Monday and $1.40 in twelve days. Nearly 150 steers sold at $16.40, with bulk of sales at $14.00@12.25, highest of the year. Lambs reached a peak of $15.40, highest since June 19.

Thirteen dollar hogs appeared at far eastern points where bulk dealers and packers factories outlined for work advanced last evening 25@75c yesterday. A deluge of shipping orders swept the middle west, eastern packers taking 18,000 at Chicago alone, the largest shipments from here since the middle of last March.

However, with local wholesale prices for fresh pork equal to the highest level in four years, the market was relatively unscathed and only 4,000 were left at the close, the high point of the day on best kinds. Eight local packers handled a total of 37,000, while city butchers bought 3,000.

The sixteen dollar cattle quotation is becoming common, and about with minimum ad. when buying 50@75c advance since Monday of last week. About 700 cattle sold at $16.25 and above in yesterday's session. Reports indicating further improvement in the market for beef at most of the large consuming centers brought local buyers on the market earlier than on previous occasions, despite the increase in supplies. Prices ruled steady to 15¢ higher, good grades showing most gain. Butcher stock sold readily at the general strength. Calves held fully to strong. Stockers and feeders were scarce and firm.

Sheep receipts continue to dwindle, year with 16,951 a year ago and with 16,160 two years ago. Miser offers during the last few weeks have resulted in a "cleanup" of the excess supply of lambs at leading consuming centers, according to reports.

Yesterday's supply of live lambs proved below immediate requirements and prices were brought up mostly 25c, bulk selling at $14.50@15.25, against $14.75 a week earlier.

Mrs. Bevans Tells of Article That Will Help Young Mothers

McGraw-Hill
Bevans

Mrs. Bevans has prepared two booklets, one on "Prayers and Graces for Children" and another called "Books to Be Read to the Children or by Them," which will be sent free on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelope.

" Haven't you often heard people say, 'O, how I'll send Bill or Peggy, when they're older'?"

But haven't you noticed that just as many people say, "O, I wish I could have a baby in the house all the time! I love them when they're little and dependent and cuddly—and when they're just walking and talking too," implying that as they grow older, they grow less interesting?

These first three years when children wrap themselves around your heart are fascinating years for mothers, but O, such vitally important ones to the child!

I wonder if many of us realize just how important. You remember those first few years when the Jesus Christ sail was all the rage of childhood? "Jesus" him for life. Do you realize that the first three years are nearly half of that plastic period?

Think of what a child wears in his first three—walk to talk, to walk, to use all his muscles, to think, to feel to experience sensory things, to form eating habits, sleeping habits, toilet habits, to live with adults, to play with children—think of what these three years mean to him. Tremendous experiences are packed into that time and we must realize it if we're to start him right.

We need to do more than love him for his sweetness and the daily unfolding delight of him. We need to give him—in our daily care of him, in his environment, in our treatment of him—all that he needs at that age. That is, we need to give him the opportunity to develop fully and freely—not spent out time and energy just making him fit quietly and conveniently into adult routine. To do this we must understand him—partly, at least.

If you have been having much trouble with your little two or three year old, or even your walking baby—why not write to the local friends of children and would like to send something which would give you a better idea of the needs of young children, you will find an excellent beginning in a reprint of an article which appeared in Progressive Education.

This is a short article, but is full of meat for a mother's mind to bite about the needs and nature of a very little child. For instance:

It tells what materials little children need to play with—and why.

It defines the wise and efficient attitude of adults toward the forming of routine habits.

It discusses the relation of very small children to each other in a group—which is quite different from that of elder children.

And it stresses the terrific importance that play material and the use of it have in a child's life.

This article is called by a name which sounds rather technical, though the article is not. It is: "Educational Implications of the Nursery School," by Harriet Johnson, a reprint by the Bureau of Educational Experiments.

One day Edward's mother gave him a slice of bread and butter. At the same time she cut a slice off the end having a small hole in the center, and gave it to his sister, but his sister said, "No, I want the hole." Edward, aged three, came over and put his arms around his sister's neck and said, "Don't cry, sister, don't eat the hole, eat around the hole."

F. T.

Little Nancybelle was racing up and down the sidewalk with her toy automobile and grinning with joy. Her mother raised the window and said, "Stop, stop, and tell her to stop." So told Nancybelle she was not going to give her the nickel promised for an ice cream cone, as she had disobeyed orders. When her daddy came home she was sitting very demurely on the front steps, an unusual occurrence. "What's the matter, honey? Why so quiet?" her daddy asked. "O, I've been fined for speeding," she sighed. L. C. S.

Sleeveless Golf Frock of Poplin

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.) —Very much in the "fore" ground of fashion—these sleeveless frocks for the lady golfer. It is, indeed, a great mistake to conceive this type of sports wear to be reserved entirely for the tennis player. On those sweltering days that prohibit the more distinctively golf clothes, the woman enthusiast of the links permits herself a less oppressive outfit. Shantung, silk crepe, linen—all these weaves and various others are featured in sleeveless modes for golf.

The tuck-in blouse with the separate skirt of flannel, tweed, jersey, or silk crepe has established its dominance over the golf links. But when it comes to the frock the discarded jumper is sometimes retained. Or, again, too, implying that as the golfer older, the greater the interestingness.

These first three years when children wrap themselves around your heart are fascinating years for mothers, but O, such vitally important ones to the child.

I wonder if many of us realize just how important. You remember those first few years when the Jesus Christ sail was all the rage of childhood? "Jesus" him for life. Do you realize that the first three years are nearly half of that plastic period?

Think of what a child wears in his first three—walk to talk, to walk, to use all his muscles, to think, to feel to experience sensory things, to form eating habits, sleeping habits, toilet habits, to live with adults, to play with children—think of what these three years mean to him. Tremendous experiences are packed into that time and we must realize it if we're to start him right.

We need to do more than love him for his sweetness and the daily unfolding delight of him. We need to give him—in our daily care of him, in his environment, in our treatment of him—all that he needs at that age. That is, we need to give him the opportunity to develop fully and freely—not spent out time and energy just making him fit quietly and conveniently into adult routine. To do this we must understand him—partly, at least.

If you have been having much trouble with your little two or three year old, or even your walking baby—why not write to the local friends of children and would like to send something which would give you a better idea of the needs of young children, you will find an excellent beginning in a reprint of an article which appeared in Progressive Education.

This is a short article, but is full of meat for a mother's mind to bite about the needs and nature of a very little child. For instance:

It tells what materials little children need to play with—and why.

It defines the wise and efficient attitude of adults toward the forming of routine habits.

It discusses the relation of very small children to each other in a group—which is quite different from that of elder children.

And it stresses the terrific importance that play material and the use of it have in a child's life.

This article is called by a name which sounds rather technical, though the article is not. It is: "Educational Implications of the Nursery School," by Harriet Johnson, a reprint by the Bureau of Educational Experiments.

The Novice at New Makeup Is Apt to Create Weird Effects

A woman correspondent made a plan to start a movement to ban sun makeup. She is not, however, a crank opposed to any departure from the strictly conventional just because it is new. Her interest is purely in the direction of better and better looking women. Sun tan makeup, as she has observed it on a number of women, has made passable looking women hideous, she says.

Allowing for the human temptation to exaggerate an offense, it must be admitted that this form of makeup can make a passable, even a good looking girl, something her best friend can't easily condone.

Instead of starting a ban movement (not one of our favorite diversions at any time), we much rather would like to urge the young women to an educational spirit. Believe there is something about its application to learn before you become a public demonstrator. It isn't going to call for such a long period of practice work. But practice work certainly ought to be done.

I think I said before that it is not a less minute step back job. Your pink rouge or rachel powder you could get with a tint to match your skin, but have you have a tint of complexion quite different from the underlying natural color so that there has to be some pretty careful work or the result is blotched and ugly. There is the hair line around the face that has to be met skillfully and there is the underneath and neck skin that calls for treatment, too. Some of the products are simpler of application than others, it is true.

There are creams for a tanning base that are raw out of jar or tube, that might be mu-h, much too deep a color. You can mix a bit of your own cold cream with the tan paste and lighten it considerably and becomingly. You can do the mixing right on your face, too. Some of the darker powders, too, might take more becomingly on your particular complexion if you mix a little of your light powder with it. These things are what call for the experimental course and practice work.

You must get the ground creams on smoothly so that there is no sign of cake when the powder is added. The job is a question of getting it right. It is a question of getting a nice new face to parade. But please do work at it a bit in your own little private boudoir before you attempt to show it off publicly.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Just a Mistletoe.

It had rained incessantly since early morning and at noon as I started home to lunch I noticed that the water was rushing madly over the pavement at a particular corner.

Curious as to the depth of the swiftly flowing water, I decided to measure it with one end of my umbrella. Going to the edge of the walk I plumped the umbrella into the water and just then I heard a sharp snap behind me say, "Wait a minute, ladiey, don't step on there, you'll drown."

Before I had time to turn around to answer, the person took me by the arm and ushered me across the street. Upon reaching the other side he patted me on the back and said, "Now you are all right."

I was embarrassed and confused that I did not say a word, for I well knew that the kind person thought that I was blind and was feeling my way with my umbrella. Perhaps it was well that I did not talk, for he surely would have discovered his mistake and would have been more embarrassed than I.

Money in the Stock.

One evening I was waiting to buy some tickets for a movie. In front of me was an old lady buying a ticket. She stopped to pick up something.

Thinking she had dropped some change, I leaned over to pick it up for her and to my embarrassment she was taking her money out of her stocking. The cashier still grins when I appear at the window.

Seventeen years ago, of course, divorce was not so prevalent. There was still a stigma felt over a broken home. May this be the mother's reason for her fiction. Again, it may have been the mother's desire of protecting the child that inspired the foolish course. At any rate, Cecilia stands today the victim of a lie from which I told him it wasn't true when I knew deep down in my heart that it was." Cecilia tells. "I told him to go back to his friend and tell him he must have me mixed up with some else."

Cecilia was afraid of losing her father, but her conscience hurts her to the point of sickness. For the mistakes of their parents the toll exacted of children seems ungodly hard.

And hope that he is understanding enough to appreciate her difficulty.

But how much better for the mother to have revealed the truth when the girl was old enough to hear it! It could have been so easily done without imparting the feeling of disgrace that obviously was the mother's unfortunate reaction.

CHICAGO TO FIGHT SEWAGE PLANTS AS BOND BURDENGather Evidence of Cost of Ending Diversion.

Evidence to show that a heavy financial burden would be imposed upon the city if the construction of filtration plants should be required by the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the lake water diversion case, will be prepared yesterday by the corporation counsel's office.

Letters were written to James Hogan, chairman of the Chicago commission, Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe. Each was requested to furnish information regarding unpublished public improvements and those contemplated in the future, together with estimates of cost.

Will Show Drain on Funds.

While this evidence will not be introduced until the hearing before Senator Evans Hughes, special master in chancery, on September 23, he has already prepared the plan of attack.

The testimony proposed to be given at the hearing. The evidence presented by the corporation counsel will be used by the sanitary district as it is being prepared at the request of the Chicago Association of Community.

The corporation counsel desires to have a clear drain will be made available to the court by his
